A TRAUMA SENSITIVE CLASSROOM TIP

Rather than asking students about what they did over the summer, consider these questions instead:

1. What do you LOVE learning about?
2. What do you most LOOK FORWARD to this school year?
3. What are three AWESOME things about yourself?
4. What is one thing you'd like your teacher and classmates to KNOW ABOUT YOU?
5. What is something NEW you'd like to make, create, try, build and/or learn about?

Without a Net: The Digital Divide in America airs 9/10 at 4 a.m. – (repeats 9/24 at 4 a.m) https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=lBAkCgDD-BE - Many of us assume that the world, or at least the country, is now fully connected, but throughout American classrooms, there exists a digital divide. In a shockingly large number of schools, access to technology, connectivity, and teacher-training is nonexistent. Many of those underserved schools are located just a few miles from fully equipped schools with technologically adept teachers in better funded districts. This new film from Academy Award® nominated, Primetime Emmy Award winning Director/Producer Rory Kennedy, in which we see the situation through the eyes of students, educators, and policy experts and advocates across the country, clearly lays out the steps we must take to bring our public education system into the 21st century.

Schools That Change Communities airs 9/14 at 3 a.m. - http://www.docmakeronline.com/schoolsthatchangecommunities.html profiles a diverse range of K-12 public schools in five states - Massachusetts, Maryland, South Dakota, Oregon and California - that are tackling educational reform at the local level.

Under 4 Trees airs 9/28 at 3 a.m. - A Zulu community in rural South Africa had no school and enlisted Nomusa Zikhali to create one, with only four trees to shelter the children as they begin their studies. UNDER FOUR TREES is also the story of Thuli and Siyabonga who share their dreams and how Mrs. Zikhali and the Nkomo Primary School influenced their lives. Mrs. Zikhali has successfully built an educational complex for 960 children that created a powerful and sustainable change in her Zulu community. This story shows the transformative power of education.

Learning from Costa Rica airs 9/28 at 3:30 a.m. - Costa Rica has long been known among American tourists for its beautiful beaches, pristine rain forests, and comfortable, safe travel. Though surrounded by Central American nations grappling with economic and related gang problems, it is also a nation which stands out for having no defense budget. In Learning From Costa Rica, a new half hour documentary from Bob Gliner (Schools That Change Communities, Barefoot College) a diverse group of American educators travel to Costa Rica to find out how this unique change in budget priorities impacts their educational system and what they might learn that could transform the schools they work in back home. In the process, they come away with not only a different view of Costa Rica, but deep insights into their own motivations to confront challenges facing schools in the United States.

Small Town Tech airs 9/17 at 4 a.m.
https://roadtripnation.com/roadtrip/yuma-tech - When most people think of innovative tech hubs, they're more likely to picture Silicon Valley than a small town. But a lot of innovation is happening outside of big cities. In ROADTRIP NATION: SMALL TOWN TECH, three young people from Yuma, Arizona set out to explore the opportunities available to them in their backyards and beyond. They speak to people who didn’t let the size of their hometown determine the boldness of their ambitions—and realize building a better future can just as easily start at home as in a thriving city center.
Conversations About Education

4 part series

Airs Fridays at 8:30 p.m.
(repeats Sundays at 11 a.m.)

Produced by Chris Christopher and Dave Marshall featuring Hélène Biandudi Hofer as the host.

This four-part series leads key players in New York State’s education systems, including Distinguished Educator Jaime Aquino, Regents Chancellor Betty Rosa, Regent Wade Norwood, Mayor Lovely Warren and others, in panel discussions about our education system. Hosted by Hélène Biandudi Hofer, the series looks at the role of a school boards, equity,

9/11 - #101 - ROLE OF A WELL-FUNCTIONING BOARD

The segments starts with a short interview with the Distinguished Educator Jaime Aquino, describing the purpose and outcome of his report to the community about the functioning of RCSD. This also helps set the stage for the topics to come. The short film features the newly-retired president of the New York State School Boards Association, Tim Kremer, who describes the role of the board and then we move to the Albany City School District which has done a turnaround. We talk to the Superintendent and board members about the positive effects of the changes. The panel discussion that follows focuses on the pitfalls of a dysfunctional board -- as well as the progress that can be achieved when boards work well together. The panelists are Regents Chancellor Betty Rosa, Regent Wade Norwood, Mayor Lovely Warren, Distinguished Educator Jamie Aquino, Superintendent Terry Dade, and former RCSD Board Member Melisza Campos.

9/18 - #102 - REVERSING A CULTURE OF LOW EXPECTATIONS

The topic addresses the reality that there is a misplaced mindset among many that certain students, for a myriad of reasons, are incapable of truly succeeding and therefore the bar is set low for them. The segment starts with a short interview with a recent RCSD graduate who talks about what it feels like when your teachers don't believe in your capacity to achieve. Helene then speaks to Mayor Lovely Warren about a personal experience she had with expectations being set low as a student at Wilson High School. After that conversation, we move to Roosevelt High School in Yonkers that completely changed their approach to learning with impressive results. We hear from Superintendent Edwin Quesada, the board chair, administrators, teachers and students about the changes in the school and the impact of the encouraging outcomes. The panel discussion that follows, including candid discussion that the role that implicit bias plays in setting expectations too low, includes Regents Chancellor Betty Rosa, Mayor Lovely Warren, Distinguished Educator Jamie Aquino, Superintendent Terry Dade and Superintendent Michael Nagler of Mineola.

9/25 - #103 - ACTUALIZING EQUITY

Lots of people talk about equity, but how does a district move from "talking the talk" to "walking the walk?" Moving from acknowledging that a culture of low expectations rooted in implicit bias holds students back -- and then working to mitigate this bias, is the hard work of culture change. After introducing the topic, Helene speaks with students about equity and then we revisit the Albany City School District which, under the leadership of Superintendent Kaweeda Adams, has been actively working to mitigate bias and empower the student voice for years -- starting with the board, right down to the maintenance staff. We hear from board members, parents, administrators and teachers about the ongoing work. The panel discussion that follows includes Regents Chancellor Betty Rosa, Regent Wade Norwood, Superintendent Lesli Myers-Small, Superintendent Terry Dade and Superintendent Mike Nagler.

10/2 - #104 - RETURNING FROM COVID

To say that COVID has turned the world of education upside down is an understatement. After introducing the topic, Helene speaks with a pair of RCSD students who have been working through this difficult time. We then move to the Mineola School District which has been recognized nationally for embracing computer and digital learning for many years. This approach put them in a much better position to cope with the sudden demands of COVID as we learn from Super indent Mike Nagler, the board chair, a teacher, student and parent. The panel discussion that follows focuses on the realities, challenges and opportunities that this moment in time presents. It is not a discussion about the day to day demands and accommodations that districts now face -- and in this way, the discussion will remain timely regardless of what is specifically happening at the district level at the time of broadcast. The panel includes Regents Chancellor Betty Rosa, Regent Wade Norwood, Distinguished Educator Jaime Aquino, Superintendent Lesli Myers-Small, and Superintendent Terry Dade.

Interviewees discuss what drew them to the area, the businesses and farms their families established, and both the discrimination many faced in their adopted land as well as the friendships they formed. They then reveal the shock and confusion felt in the immediate aftermath of Pearl Harbor and the tragic and disorienting uprooting of lives as families were forced to abandon their homes and move into temporary assembly centers before being sent to permanent internment camps.
