Dear Friend,

April marks the beginning of spring and the scheduled end of the New York State budget process. Both could benefit from more sunshine.

With no warning and no explanation, the Governor’s proposed 50% reduction in State operating aid for public broadcasting is a serious and unprecedented blow (and out of line with other reductions in education). While our local legislative delegation has been extremely supportive of our efforts to restore at least part of the cut, one thing is certain – we will have to absorb a serious reduction in support for educational programs and services in the coming year. This makes your support – membership, program underwriting, production funding, and planned gifts – more important than ever (individual giving, at more than $3 million a year, remains our largest source of revenue).

In these difficult economic times you have a right to ask if your support is being used wisely and if it’s making a difference. While budgets may be decided by “three men in a room” in Albany, WXXI’s Karen DeWitt is there watching every step of the process. Her daily reports on AM 1370 and WRUR-FM keep you informed about the ways your tax dollars, along with the State’s portion of federal stimulus money, are being spent. Karen is also a regular contributor to New York Now on WXXI-TV. I hope you agree that in-depth reporting from the State Capital is a good investment – along with our dues to NPR for award-winning coverage of national and international events on the radio.

I trust you agree that our dues to PBS, which help support The NewsHour with Jim Lehrer, Frontline, Nova, Washington Week and other public affairs programming are dollars well invested. Additionally, Need to Know, our weekly television public affairs program, brings you in-depth coverage on local issues, with a special focus on the economy in recent months.

How do others view our program investments? WXXI just received two Bronze Telly Awards recognizing episodes of our national health series, Second Opinion. This program, a partnership with the University of Rochester Medical Center (URMC), is making a difference in healthcare here in the Rochester area and throughout the nation. One example – our new Caregiver’s Diary and Resource Guide helps individuals manage their loved ones’ healthcare. This is part of the Second Opinion for Caregivers initiative, supported by a grant from the Jacob and Valeria Langeloth Foundation. The initiative is designed to empower the more than 50 million Americans caring for a family member, friend, or loved one. Thirty thousand guides will be distributed to PBS stations across the country to share with their communities.

Recently, when an independent producer decided to feature our Rochester Red Wings baseball team in a 13-part series, he asked WXXI to help and present the show nationally. When Chicago’s public television station, WYCC, put a focus on jazz in March they selected WXXI’s productions from the Rochester International Jazz Festival as their featured programming. When almost any arts and cultural organization or educational institution in town is looking for a media partner, they turn to WXXI first – because we believe that when we help another organization be more successful, it benefits all of us.

If you made a gift during our recent television “pledge drive” or clicked on www.savennypbs.org to make your voice heard in Albany, thank you! Your financial support and your advocacy make a real difference. Our “pledge” back to you is that we’ll continue to work hard to merit your trust, and even in the most difficult of times, stay true to the mission of public broadcasting. And while we can’t control the weather, our reporters in Washington, Albany and right here at home will do their best to shed light on the stories that matter to you – every day!

Sincerely,

Norm Silverstein, WXXI President & CEO

Geneva On The Lake

“Quiet getaways, as well as executive retreats, weddings and family reunions, attract guests from near and far.”

Bill Schickel
General Manager, Geneva on the Lake

The Italian Renaissance architecture of this historic landmark, its formal gardens, fine dining, and 29 unique suites with Stickley furniture, offer guests an oasis for celebrating special times together. The surrounding scenic countryside of the Finger Lakes with more than 100 wineries is a perennial magnet for visitors. Each evening the Lancellotti Dining Room features gourmet cuisine, candlelight dining, live piano or harp musical entertainment with occasional accompaniment by a vocalist. The Wine List includes many wines from the Finger Lakes Wine District.

When asked about the longtime relationship with WXXI, Bill Schickel explained: “The decision to partner with WXXI very much relates to being able to portray Geneva On The Lake in the rich cultural context WXXI offers.” Mr. Schickel added that he tends to listen to parts of Morning Edition and All Things Considered and his wife enjoys Fresh Air on WXXI-AM 1370.

Gift Planning 101

Charitable gift planning
The techniques of charitable gift planning include both revocable and irrevocable arrangements, gifts available for use at the time they are given and gifts that may not be available until a future date and split-interest gifts intended to balance financial, personal and charitable objectives. These techniques are called planned gifts. The tools of charitable gift planning include all types of real and personal property and tangible and intangible assets.

What are Planned Gifts?
Planned gifts are a variety of charitable giving methods that allow you to express your personal values by integrating your charitable, family and financial goals. Making a planned charitable gift usually requires the assistance of a knowledgeable advisor such as an attorney, financial planner, or CPA to help structure the gift.

Planned gifts can be made with cash, but many planned gifts are made by donating assets such as stock or real estate. Planned gifts can provide valuable tax benefits and/or lifetime income for you and your spouse or other loved one. The most frequently-made planned gifts are bequests made through your will. Other popular planned gifts include charitable trusts and charitable gift annuities.

Why consider a planned gift?
Many people want to make charitable gifts but need to do so in a way that helps meet their other personal, family, or financial needs. Planned gifts give you options for making your charitable gifts in ways that may allow you to:

- Make a larger charitable gift than you thought possible
- Increase your current income
- Plan for the financial needs of a spouse or loved one
- Provide inheritances for your heirs at a reduced tax cost
- Reduce your income tax and/or avoid capital gains tax
- Diversify your investment portfolio
- Leave a charitable legacy for future generations

For more information on ways to make a planned gift to WXXI, please contact Kathy Russell Reed, Director of Major and Planned Giving at (585) 258-0319 or at kreed@wxxi.org. You may also go to our website at wxxi.org/support/planned giving.
KING-SIZE CROWDS FOR THE KING OF INSTRUMENTS

By Ruth Phinney, WXXI-FM’s Program Director

WXXI Health Campaign Tackles Child Obesity

When times get tough, the tough collaborate!

Such was the case for the three-day, three-concert Pipedreams Live! event presented by WXXI-FM Classical 91.5, the Eastman School of Music, the Rochester Chapter of the American Guild of Organists, and the Rochester Theater Organ Society, February 13-15, 2009.

Pipedreams host Michael Barone came to Rochester to host and record three concerts, featuring two organs that had been recently completed as part of the Eastman Rochester Organ Initiative (EROI), and the Mighty Wurlitzer at the Auditorium Theater.

“I go into these things hopeful but always nervous.” Barone said. “Will the publicity be effective and sufficient? Do people really listen to Pipedreams and, if so, why will they come out to hear a Pipedreams Live! event and not already be regulars at the organ activity in town?”

The Friday night concert, on an elegant new organ by Paul Fritts drew a standing-room only crowd of nearly 1000. Saturday’s featured Craighead-Saunders organ, a new-made replica of an organ from 1776 by Casparini in Lithuania, drew a fire-code-violating crowd of over 500. On Sunday afternoon, the multigenerational crowd swelled to 1300+ for a concert of popular music from Cole Porter to Andrew Lloyd Webber. Barone reflected, “It really is a marvelous mystery, all of it, but I can’t help but smile when good instruments, good players, and a good-sized audience converge for a great time with the King of Instruments.”

Organ students and faculty treated the capacity audiences to outstanding performances from the Eastman School of Music. David Higgs, chair of the Organ Department applauded the performers, saying “I couldn’t have been more proud of everyone this weekend – incredible music making, professional stage work and huge audiences – what a weekend!”

Eastman School of Music senior Jon Ortloff, winner of the 2008 American Theatre Organ Society’s Young Theatre Organist Competition, and a performer in Sunday’s program stated, “All in all it was an unparalleled success for all of the organizations involved. It really could not have been a more triumphant event.”

WXXI was recently awarded a three-year local service grant from the Corporation of Public Broadcasting (CPB) to continue its on-going efforts to fight childhood obesity and make a positive impact on the health of Upstate New Yorkers. WXXI will partner with PBS-affiliate WSKG in Binghamton to help educate families across the region about the importance of eating healthy, maintaining a healthy body weight and exercising.

The Greater Rochester Health Foundation and a coalition of local health organizations identified childhood obesity as the most pressing health issue in Upstate New York. With 21% of third grade school children in Upstate New York labeled as obese, which exceeds the national rate of 16%, WXXI’s efforts in helping to reduce this alarming statistic is crucial.

WXXI will use the grant money to produce 36 “Healthy You” TV segments to promote healthy behaviors to school-aged children. The University of Rochester Medical Center will serve as content providers for the segments, which will air on WXXI-TV during Homework Hotline, a live, statewide call-in show that helps kids with their homework. The segments will also be posted online at homeworkhotline.org for further use by kids, families and teachers. The entire series of segments will be available on DVD as well, and be distributed to Rochester area libraries, neighborhood health centers and other underserved areas identified by WXXI’s community partners.

WXXI will also host two community forums encouraging discussions on childhood obesity, health, nutrition, and exercise. These one-hour forums will air on WXXI-TV and WSKG-TV. In addition to the televised forums, WXXI and WSKG will produce three one-hour radio specials focused on childhood obesity, nutrition and fitness. These programs will air on WXXI-AM 1370 and WSOX-FM 91.5.

WXXI will also host local “Healthy You” workshops for teachers, daycare providers, and caregivers, arming them with the information and resources needed to educate students and families on how to ensure healthy lifestyles. During these workshops, WXXI will distribute more than 200 custom-designed health education family literacy kits that will be used in the classroom, and sent home with students to use with their families.
They were charismatic and forward thinking, imaginative and courageous, passionate and resolute, and, at times, arrogant, vengeful, and reckless. For hundreds of years, Native American leaders from Massasoit, Tecumseh, and Tecumwatawa, to Major Ridge, Geronimo, and Fools Crow, valiantly resisted expulsion from their lands and fought the extinction of their culture. Sometimes, their strategies were militaristic, but more often they were diplomatic, spiritual, legal, and political.

American Experience, in association with Native American Public Telecommunications, presents a five-part series that shows how Native peoples valiantly resisted expulsion from their lands and fought the extinction of their culture—from the Wampanoags of New England in the 1600s who used their alliance with the English to weaken rival tribes, to the bold new leaders of the 1970s who harnessed the momentum of the civil rights movement to forge a pan-Indian identity. We Shall Remain represents an unprecedented collaboration between Native and non-Native filmmakers and involves Native advisors and scholars at all levels of the project.

We Shall Remain airs Mondays, April 13–May 11 at 9 p.m. on WXXI-TV/HD.

Swimming in Auschwitz

This documentary interweaves the stories of six Jewish women imprisoned inside the Auschwitz-Birkenau concentration camp. The women maintained a spiritual resistance against their Nazi aggressors through prayer, music, and even humor. Their compelling testimonials reveal the power of laughter and community, even in the face of evil.

Swimming in Auschwitz airs Monday, April 20 at 10:30 p.m. on WXXI-TV/HD.

SPOTLIGHT ON A DAYTIME PROGRAM

ARTHUR

Arthur is a charismatic third grader who just happens to be an aardvark. Along with his friends, Buster, Francine, Binky, Muffy, and the Brain, Arthur learns to navigate the world in comical episodes that deal with friendship, family, and growing up. Arthur must conquer the homework of the notoriously hard Mr. Ratburn, avoid the embarrassment of his parents and younger sister, D.W., and keep the peace between his eccentric group of friends. Arthur's adventures are always entertaining and heartwarming, and a sure hit with children and parents alike.

ARTHUR airs Monday through Friday 7 a.m. and 3:30 p.m.

The two-part series chronicles the lives of seven young medical students as they embark on the longest and most rigorous endeavor in higher education: the years-long journey to become a doctor.

DOCTORS’ DIARIES begins by reuniting the physicians on the steps of Harvard Medical School 17 years after graduation. Footage from the previous four installments in the series offers a rare and candid look at the rewards and personal sacrifices each has made over the last two decades—from the stress of medical school exams, to the first cut into a cadaver, through first wedding ceremonies, internship, residency, and life as a certified M.D.

Dr. Liebschutz now lives in Boston, MA where she is currently an internist specializing in underserved populations, domestic violence, and addictions. She is also an Associate Professor of Medicine at Boston University School of Medicine. She graduated from Pittsford-Mendon High School in 1979, and attended Yale University where she majored in Chinese Studies. Her interest in medicine happened just before her senior year at Yale, when she enrolled in a summer traveling fellowship in China. There she learned about the Barefoot Doctors in rural China (public health para-professionals), and decided to pursue medicine/public health after graduation.

The Rochester Philharmonic Orchestra (RPO) broadcast series is back with 14-concert installment of its 2008-2009 season. Hosted by Brenda Tremblay, the series features wonderful classical music, plus personal and unusual interviews with RPO Music Director Christopher Seaman. The premiere broadcast, airing Wednesday, April 8 at 8 p.m., features pianist André Watts, who flies across the keys in Beethoven’s Emperor Concerto. Also featured are Shostakovich’s Festive Overture and Dvorak’s New World Symphony, both directed by Christopher Seaman.

As one of the great American orchestras, the RPO aspires to be an institution driven by a culture of confidence, adventure, excellence, and success. Founded by George Eastman in 1922, it is committed to enriching and inspiring its community through the art of music. With more than 140 concerts per year, the RPO is a premier cultural organization in Rochester.

ROCHESTER PHILHARMONIC ORCHESTRA

INTELLIGENCE Squared U.S.: blame washington more than wall street for the financial crisis

One motion, one moderator, three panelists for the motion, three against, Intelligence Squared U.S. brings Oxford-style debating to America. In this debate, we argue over whether Washington is more to blame for our current economic situation than Wall Street. ABC News Nightline correspondent John Donvan moderates. Panelist for the motion: Niall Ferguson, Laurence A. Tisch Professor of History at Harvard University; John Steele Gordon, a lifelong author and commentator on New York’s business and financial history; and Nouriel Roubini is a professor of economics and international business at the Stern School of Business, New York University. Panelists against the motion: Alex Berenson, a business investigative reporter for the New York Times; Jim Chanos, founder and Managing Partner of Kynikos Associates; and Nell Minow, editor and co-founder of The Corporate Library, an independent corporate governance research firm.

airs Saturday, April 11 at 3 p.m. on AM1370/HD91.5-2

AMERICA ABROAD: the responsibility to protect

The Holocaust, Rwanda, the Balkans and now Darfur.

After each atrocity, the world says never again, and yet here it is ... again. Now the international community has a new idea: Responsibility to Protect (R2P). This idea states that each country is obligated to protect its citizens, and if a country can’t, the international community must.

So is this new norm more than high-minded rhetoric? Does it violate the each country’s right to have control within its borders? Co-hosts Ray Suarez and Deborah Amos explore two situations in Democratic Republic of Congo and Kenya to see what R2P looks like on the ground. And they take a step back to see how the concept of R2P went from a fledgling idea to being endorsed by the U.N. General Assembly.

YELLOW FLUFF, ROCKET LIZARDS & OTHER CURIOUS ENCOUNTERS

Science can be an exacting mistress. After long months, years or even decades of meticulous work, scientists sometimes think they’ve taken a step forward only to find themselves two steps back. But the promise of an answer is seductive. In this Radio Lab program you’ll hear from scientists about their passionate and sometimes fraught relationships with science. Theoretical physicist and author Alan Lightman takes us into the consuming world of pursuit and inquiry, and geneticist Jerry Coyne describes the sense of wonder he felt when faced with his own personal parasite.

airs Saturday, April 4 at 3 p.m. on AM1370/HD91.5-2

As decisions surrounding energy and climate grow more urgent and complicated, WXXI is proud to bring Rochester PLANET FORWARD, a national initiative designed to bring together motivated citizens and frontline experts to create a new level of discussion, debate, and engagement.

In March PLANET FORWARD engaged and connected with citizens across the country through the most persuasive and creative online submissions: Op/Ed pieces, photo essays, songs, film, animation. The most provocative and interesting submissions were chosen to be part of the PBS special, PLANET FORWARD, which was taped in front of a live audience at Washington D.C.’s George Washington University, and features A-list experts, scientists, policy makers, and business leaders, as well as citizen journalists. Hosted by Emmy Award-winning CNN veteran Frank Sesno, PLANET FORWARD premieres Wednesday, April 15 at 8 p.m. on WXXI-TV/HD. The first program explores the feasibility of moving rapidly away from fossil fuels.

Prior to the national broadcast, WXXI’s Need to Know will present its own version of PLANET FORWARD on Friday, April 10 at 8:30 p.m. on WXXI-TV/HD. The special features local efforts to move away from fossil fuels.

In addition, WXXI-AM’s 1370 Connection will feature an interview with PLANET FORWARD managing editor and host Frank Sesno, an Emmy-award winning CNN veteran, on Wednesday, April 15 at noon.
If You’re DTV Ready, Consider Helping Someone Who’s Not!

Don’t Wait Until June 12 to get DTV READY!

As WXXI continues to lead the region’s digital television transition outreach efforts, it invites those who are DTV ready to help those who are not prepared for the switch from analog to digital, which is now planned for June 12, 2009. WXXI was one of the 12 agencies across the country selected to assist the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) with its DTV consumer education program, and was awarded a contract to implement a toll-free help center; a “street team” of DTV converter box installers; and community-based events designed to educate attendees about the transition.

Share the toll-free number for WXXI’s DTV Help Center: Trained technicians and personnel staff this help center, and can answer a variety of DTV questions. Call (866)-348-9944.

Donate Unused DTV Converter Boxes: WXXI will get unwanted DTV converter boxes to people who need them. Drop the boxes off to WXXI at 280 State Street in Rochester between 8 a.m. and 7 p.m. weekdays, or Saturdays 8 a.m. to 12 p.m.

Donate Unused DTV Converter Box Coupons: Donate unused DTV converter box coupons to WXXI, and we’ll distribute them to those who need them. Mail the coupons to WXXI, DTV Converter Box Coupon Collection, 280 State Street, Rochester, NY 14614.

Help someone obtain a coupon: If your household is eligible for a coupon, but you don’t need one, consider applying for and donating the coupon to a neighbor, senior center, community center, or WXXI, who will get it to the people who need them. Go to WXXI.org/dtv and click on “Apply for a TV Converter Box Coupon.”

Help someone obtain a converter box: Drive someone, who is otherwise unable to get to a store, to purchase a DTV converter box, or use a coupon to buy a box and donate it to a neighbor, church group, senior center, or WXXI.

Help someone connect a converter box: Although boxes are easy to install, the elderly or disabled may need extra help. There are multiple online resources explaining how to connect a box. Sharing your abilities with a neighbor is an incredible help.
